music & lyrics: andy enroe

“Don't go to the black man” – she still hears her father's voice say and he once taught her – everything he knew

And she persuaded him – to organize – a private teacher for her and he did everything – for his daughter

chrs 1

That is the time her father was a	in Afghanistan proud man
That is the time remembering	when she creeps back a time long ago
That is the time walking back to	he closes her eyes those times
That is the time when her uncle named her husband	that rainy day
That is the time	in Afghanistan in Afghanistan

main 2

Her father was a proud man – and she still feels his enthusiasm her father fought for her – education

She remembers that rainy day when her uncle named her husband

A man she'd never – seen before and she knew that she had to go her own way

chrs 2

That is the time in Afghanistan
her father was a proud man

That is the time when she creeps back remembering a time long ago

That is the time he closes her eyes
walking back to those times

That is the time that rainy day
when her uncle named her husband

Is this – only history? Yeah

main 3

Everybody of this time – she's forgotten nearly all of them and she still sees her sister's eyes – talking all night through

And she goes to those mountains – of absurd beauty in her former land

That is the time in Afghanistan

That is the time he closes her eyes

That is the time that rainy day
when her uncle named her husband

That is the time in Afghanistan
That is the time in Afghanistan, in Afghanistan

ending

In those days – in Afghanistan in Afghanistan
